DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1 & 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Brumer (102).

Brumer discloses a Bowling Dice game.

Regarding claims 1 & 2

Brumer teaches a plurality of six sided dice with bowling indicia thereon (see figure 1). Brumer fails to teach the specific indicia outlined in the limitations of this claim, however, he teaches that his device is capable of "many modifications in structure and design without departing from the spirit of the invention" (see col. 2, lines 19-22). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to make the design/indicia on the dice any shape or form since it would only depend on the intended use of the assembly and the desired information to be displayed. Further, it has been held that when the claimed printed matter is not functionally related to the substrate it will not distinguish the invention from the prior art in terms of patentability. In re Gulack, 217 USPQ 401, (CAFC 1983). The fact that the content of the printed matter placed on the substrate may render the device more convenient by providing an individual with a specific type of indicia on the dice does not alter the functional relationship. Mere support by the substrate for the printed matter is not the kind of functional relationship necessary for patentability. Thus, there is no novel and unobvious functional relationship between the printed matter e.g. bowling pins and the substrate e.g. a strike or spots, which is required for patentability.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 3 is allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: Patentability has been found because the prior art fails to suggest or show the combination as set forth in the independent claim 3 including the specific method of play coupled with the order of dice manipulation. This requirement is not seen or fairly suggested by the prior art of record.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure and are cited to show the state of art with respect to features of the claimed invention.
